Community College Reception

Trifos Design Consultants was commissioned to design a reception desk/station for an existing lobby/foyer at a local community college.

The design rendering showcases the effectiveness of illustration graphics in promoting and communicating design concepts to Clients, even for modest projects of minimal scale. It is our opinion that the art of effective communication should not be exclusive to large-budget projects. Just as thoughts can be expressed verbally, ideas can also be effectively made visible in renderings. Renderings promote visual thinking, and stimulate the imagination. Whether drawn on a computer, or by hand, all drawing renderings speak to the human eye, and help build understanding between the designer and Client.
